Department of Painting and Sculpture Internship

The National Portrait Gallery Department of Painting and Sculpture is seeking an intern to work during the spring of 2013. The Department of Painting and Sculpture is a curatorial department responsible for acquiring, cataloging, and researching all paintings and sculpture in the Portrait Gallery. Members of the department also conduct research for special exhibitions and for publications on the history of American portraiture, as well as handle numerous public inquiries.

An intern should have a sound academic background in art history, American studies, or American history; good research and writing skills; and be able to use a word-processing program. Preference will be given to college graduates and those with some graduate-level work.

This is a part time internship from approximately mid January to mid May, 2013.

How to Apply:

Please apply using the Smithsonian online application system at <https://solaa.si.edu>.

Please be aware that complete applications must include the following:

- Internship program application form
- Academic transcripts (unofficial are acceptable)
- Personal essay (use this to tell us how the internship will advance your academic/career goals)
- Two letters of reference

The deadline for applications for this position is 9:00 AM on Monday, December 10, or until filled.
